

We are not ‘spiritual teachers.’ We are one community, one group of people—His children. We are a brotherhood with mothers and brothers. We are all one community, one group of children, one gathering, one family of brothers and sisters. We talk to one another and tell each other about our state of mind. You may tell me something, then you have to listen to me, and so on. In this way, we teach and we learn. We come to understand our faults, ascertain what is right and wrong, and then try to do what is right, and avoid what is the wrong. We join together and discuss what is within each of us. We discuss how to do the right and reject the wrong. This is how we learn. In this school, this is the way we understand and learn. This is unity. This is United Nations, unity, brothers and sisters in harmony. Through this we try to understand ourselves, learn and become peaceful. Tranquility, peace and equanimity are what we strive for. We say, "We will be peaceful!" This is why we gather here. Each person tells of his inner aspirations and tries to find peace.

“When we proceed in this manner and become clear, then our Father, our Teacher, will come. When we attain clarity, the Original Teacher will come to us and guide us, saying, ‘That is correct, this is correct, do this, do that.’ He will give us the necessary counsel.
